CALL FOR PAPERS

International Journal of Transport Phenomena provides a high-quality forum for a wide range of papers dealing with original research results pertaining to the transfer processes of mass, momentum and energy, particularly when two or all three processes are occurring simultaneously. The journal will also provide well-prepared archival review articles.

The journal encourages manuscripts from a broad spectrum of scientists and engineers working in academia, industry and government. It appeals to an interdisciplinary audience in the fields of mechanical, chemical, nuclear, process, petroleum, aerospace, environmental and bio-engineering

Papers submitted for publication must be in English and must follow a prescribed format. All papers will be subjected to a critical peer-review prior to publication.

The editors of International Journal of Transport Phenomena invite your contributions. Notes for contributors can be found at the journal website at: http://www.oldcity-publishing.com/journals/ijtp-home/ijtp-notes-for-contributors/
